For 4 years now, the Georgia Tech Business Forum has served to prepare students for the professional world by fostering creative thought and professional exploration and connecting them to industry leaders and innovative companies. The workshop format engages students to teach them tangible business skills to springboard their careers.

Attendance averages 120 students, and growth potential is strong. The event consists of an opening and closing keynote, breakout workshops, a Q&A panel, and a networking reception, giving students and professionals plenty of opportunities to interact and build relationships.
